What you will learn:

Attendees will learn techniques on this online seminar for operating safely on roads during winter conditions and how to survive winter weather.

Here are a few topics that will be discussed:

- What is a good following distance to have during winter weather?
- What are some good driving habits during winter weather?
- How to prevent truck and trailer brakes from freezing to the drums when they stop at night
- How to prevent fifth wheel locking components from freezing and not working properly.
- How to prevent ice buildup in the air lines during extreme cold conditions.
- What type of survival gear should a driver have with them?

Presenter:

Wayne Carlson - Schneider National

Wayne has been with Schneider for 26 years. He started as a driver in 1991. He has over 15 years of over-the-road driving experience. During his time on the road he worked as a Driving Instructor to help train Schneider's newly hired drivers. Today, he is working as a Safety and Training Manager. He helps keep the drivers safe while working on or around their equipment. He also helps maintain the driver's qualifications and ensures they are compliant with Schneider safety policies and FMSCA guidelines.
